

OccupyDenver

The resistance continues at the Denver Civic Center Park

The Eight Rules

A set of principles to help guide #OccupyDenver

- 1) Nonviolent discipline, no matter what. Zero tolerance for any violence whatsoever, including verbal.
- 2) Unity of message & across orgs and people. There should be a consistent message & demands coming out & activists shld know it & share it.
- 3) There must be a long-term and coherent strategy, not just tactics and actions (no matter how clever) that are not connected in some way.
- 4) Security forces/police should be seen as potential recruits to movement, not as adversaries. Ultimately they are accountable to the people.
- 5) Keep larger audience (national and international) in mind when framing the message. The goal is to win ppl over, not to alienate.
- 6) Defensive strategies never win. Don't respond to verbal attacks or hostile propaganda by using the language of the opponent. Reframe.
- 7) Claim victory whenever possible. It's important for morale and enthusiasm. Keep anger/rage in check with humor and solidarity actions.

OccupyDenver

The resistance continues at the Denver Civic Center Park

The Eight Rules

A set of principles to help guide #OccupyDenver

- 1) Nonviolent discipline, no matter what. Zero tolerance for any violence whatsoever, including verbal.
- 2) Unity of message & across orgs and people. There should be a consistent message & demands coming out & activists shld know it & share it.
- 3) There must be a long-term and coherent strategy, not just tactics and actions (no matter how clever) that are not connected in some way.
- 4) Security forces/police should be seen as potential recruits to movement, not as adversaries. Ultimately they are accountable to the people.
- 5) Keep larger audience (national and international) in mind when framing the message. The goal is to win ppl over, not to alienate.
- 6) Defensive strategies never win. Don't respond to verbal attacks or hostile propaganda by using the language of the opponent. Reframe.
- 7) Claim victory whenever possible. It's important for morale and enthusiasm. Keep anger/rage in check with humor and solidarity actions.

OccupyDenver

The resistance continues at the Denver Civic Center Park

The Eight Rules

A set of principles to help guide #OccupyDenver

- 1) Nonviolent discipline, no matter what. Zero tolerance for any violence whatsoever, including verbal.
- 2) Unity of message & across orgs and people. There should be a consistent message & demands coming out & activists shld know it & share it.
- 3) There must be a long-term and coherent strategy, not just tactics and actions (no matter how clever) that are not connected in some way.
- 4) Security forces/police should be seen as potential recruits to movement, not as adversaries. Ultimately they are accountable to the people.
- 5) Keep larger audience (national and international) in mind when framing the message. The goal is to win ppl over, not to alienate.
- 6) Defensive strategies never win. Don't respond to verbal attacks or hostile propaganda by using the language of the opponent. Reframe.
- 7) Claim victory whenever possible. It's important for morale and enthusiasm. Keep anger/rage in check with humor and solidarity actions.

OccupyDenver

The resistance continues at the Denver Civic Center Park

The Eight Rules

A set of principles to help guide #OccupyDenver

- 1) Nonviolent discipline, no matter what. Zero tolerance for any violence whatsoever, including verbal.
- 2) Unity of message & across orgs and people. There should be a consistent message & demands coming out & activists shld know it & share it.
- 3) There must be a long-term and coherent strategy, not just tactics and actions (no matter how clever) that are not connected in some way.
- 4) Security forces/police should be seen as potential recruits to movement, not as adversaries. Ultimately they are accountable to the people.
- 5) Keep larger audience (national and international) in mind when framing the message. The goal is to win ppl over, not to alienate.
- 6) Defensive strategies never win. Don't respond to verbal attacks or hostile propaganda by using the language of the opponent. Reframe.
- 7) Claim victory whenever possible. It's important for morale and enthusiasm. Keep anger/rage in check with humor and solidarity actions.